CORAL GABLES, Fla. – (July 29, 2010) – Hyatt Regency Curaçao Golf Resort, Spa and Marina and Hyatt Regency Trinidad recently announced the launch of Meet and Be Green, a new program that encourages guests and planners to make green choices for their meetings. In order to Meet and Be Green at these two Caribbean properties, planners and meeting attendees will pledge to take these ten steps to “go green” during their meeting:

- Recycle during the meeting
- Use products with 100% recycled content
- Print materials locally

- Eliminate disposable water bottles
- Minimize use of other disposable products such as plates, cups, napkins, and utensils
- Select locally grown seasonal foods when planning the menu
- Plan ahead for the meeting to make it easier and more economical to keep the meeting green

Dedicated meeting planners at Hyatt Regency Curaçao and Hyatt Regency Trinidad will help source products with 100% recycled content, find local suppliers, and maximize efforts to reduce waste to create a meeting experience that exceeds expectations and helps the environment at the same time. To discuss Meet and Be Green options, meeting planners should contact the Hyatt Regency Curaçao and Hyatt Regency Trinidad sales teams at 5999.840.1234 for Hyatt Regency Curaçao and 1-800-233-1234 for Hyatt Regency Trinidad.

Green is one of the latest additions to Great Happens, Hyatt's ongoing campaign to emphasize the power and importance of in-person meetings.

EXPERIENCE THE JOURNEY TO WELL-BEING AT HYATT REGENCY CURAÇAO'S ATABEI SPA Allow the five senses to awaken, hydrate, nourish and renew at the Caribbean's newest luxury spa

WILLEMSTAD, Curaçao – March 2010 – Combining indigenous ingredients unique to Curaçao, the new Atabei Spa at Hyatt Regency Curaçao Golf Resort, Spa and Marina, welcomes guests to experience an authentic holistic retreat. The spa draws inspiration from the ancient culture and rituals of the Arawak people, the original inhabitants of the island, and looks to utilize native plants, sea salts, muds and herbs honoring the majestic landscape of Curaçao. Surrounded by the beautiful Caribbean waters, Atabei Spa will feature 4,500 square feet of indoor/outdoor space.

The spa invites guests to relax and rejuvenate while experiencing the many native traditions and rituals, which inspire Atabei, meaning "mother earth, creator of life." Spa Director Karina Chung stated, "It is believed by some that the origin of the name Curaçao is a derivative of the Portuguese word for healing, due to the plants that grow on the island and it is our goal to incorporate those abundant local ingredients. We hope to provide guests with a truly awakening experience where we are guiding their body and spirit towards a healthy lifestyle, not only at the spa but also at home."

The signature treatments at the spa are designed to heal and guide the body to a more relaxed and stress-free state. All treatments begin with a Balinese foot cleansing ritual using herbs, local sea salts and a kalbass bowl used as a vessel to cleanse the body and soul.

Enveloped with island rich minerals and vitamins, guests can soothe their skin with the spa's Mud Restore Wrap. Applying traditional Curaçao healing techniques, the Stemps Massage utilizes sachets of locally grown herbs dipped in warm organic oils, leaving the body in a tranquil state of relaxation.

Guests seeking the ultimate in rejuvenation can experience the signature Lama Salt Bar. The create-your-own body scrub experience allows guests to select from a combination of sea salts, herbs and aromatic oils, which meld together as a detoxifying scrub, leaving the skin glowing like the Curaçao sunset.

Just as spectacular and as refreshing as the treatments are the suites at Atabei Spa. All guest-centric style suites are equipped with private Swiss rain showers, outdoor relaxation area and a vanity, which allow guests to remain in one individual room for multiple treatments. Couples can enjoy harmony together in the spa's intimate couple's suite. Guests wanting to get closer to nature can do so at any of the indoor/outdoor treatment rooms, which boast spectacular views of the ocean and the radiant Curaçao sky.

Atabei proudly features the earth-friendly products of Curaçao local, Dinah Veeris, whose botanical garden and homemade products menu includes: Curaçao black mud and aloe, Curaçao white mud with oats, Caribbean Sea salts, rosemary, yerba bueno and Curaçao white basil. The spa also uses products from Naturopathica – eco-certified, natural products using herbs and botanicals grown on organic farms from around the world. For salon treatments, Atabei offers the Spa Ritual nail care line which uses eco-friendly and organic vegan products with plant essences. Hair is hydrated and renewed with Davines – an Italian hair care line which uses renewable energy sources and active ingredients such as herbs, flowers and fruits.
